CGS Net Electrical Generation for February 2024: 802,499 Mega Watt-Hours.

The following information must be reported to the Council if applicable to the facility:

Environmental Compliance:

At approximately 1635 PST on March 6, 2024, Energy Northwest discovered a malfunction in the halogenation/dehalogenation system at Columbia Generating Station, which is used for continuous control of the biological growth in the circulating water (CW) and plant service water (TSW) systems. It's also used to prevent discharge of halogens into the Columbia River during continuous blowdown. This malfunction resulted in an exceedance of the maximum daily effluent limit of 0.1 milligrams/liter (mg/L) for total residual halogen (TRH) per Columbia's National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) permit.

The automatic isolation function of the halogenation/dehalogenation system and the emergency trip push button failed to isolate the continuous blowdown line. Workers manually secured the system and isolated the continuous blowdown line to the Columbia River at approximately 1646 PST on March 6, 2024.

Energy Northwest notified the Energy Facility Site Evaluation Council (EFSEC) on March 6, 2024, at approximately 2303 PST. Energy Northwest followed up by phone call with EFSEC the morning of March 7, 2024, to ensure the notification was received.

The period of noncompliance (e.g., exceedance of the maximum daily effluent limit for TRH) occurred on March 6, 2024. Maximum daily effluent limit is defined as being the highest allowable daily discharge. Per the NPDES permit Table 2 footnote b, the daily discharge is the average discharge of TRH measured during a calendar day. The average TRH discharge for the noncompliance period of March 6, 2024, was 1.06 mg/L. Based on a review of continuous TRH data collected, TRH readings above the 0.1 mg/L maximum daily effluent limit for TRH began on March 6, 2024, at approximately 0815 PST and ended on March 6, 2024, at approximately 1646 PST (when blowdown to the Columbia River was isolated). Blowdown was successfully restored on March 7, 2024, at approximately 1554 PST after collection and verification of TRH (i.e., less than 0.1 mg/L) via two grab samples taken 15 minutes apart.

An evaluation of the halogenation/dehalogenation system malfunction is being driven by the station Corrective Action Program (CAP) utilizing the Condition Report (CR) process and is assigned CR number 456023. Chemistry and Information Services Departments are working with the equipment vendor to gain an understanding of and address the issues regarding the halogenation/dehalogenation system, aiming to prevent any future recurrence. EN will provide an update to EFSEC once the evaluation is finalized.
