To Whom It May Concern,

Please consider an alternative siting for this project. While alternative energy sourcing is an essential component to moving away from dependence on coal, oil, etc., compromising species' survival - like the greater sage grouse among others - and diminishment of open, natural spaces is not an equitable trade-off. There are other places that could support a project like this that would not further the risk of diminishing habitat for wildlife already struggling to survive.

Why not consider areas like parking lots, rooftops, etc., that could accommodate solar panels without further compromising natural lands?

This is not a good idea and I think this project should be rejected.

Thank you,
